

YOUR TUTORS

TellYours offers storytellers a chance to be tutored by the very best artists and producers across the storytelling, literature and theatre sectors.

This year's tutors are:

Melanie Abrahams is a leading literature producer and curator in the England arts scene. She brings diverse artists and audiences to the arts and the public through her organisations Renaissance One and Tilt. Melanie champions Black leadership in the North as an Enabler for Eclipse Theatre's Sustained Theatre funded project SLATE. Melanie was a recipient of a Women To Watch Award.

Livia Filotico is a producer, organiser, and founder of Filotico Arts. Over the years she has worked with literary and cultural organisations, bookshops, universities and publishers to organise and promote cultural events. She is a fellow of The Audience Diversity Academy and holds a BA in Anthropology from Goldsmiths University. Along with TellYours, she is also working on an interdisciplinary festival celebrating the 50th anniversary of the Moon landing.

Daniel Morden is one of the leading exponents in the art of storytelling in the UK and leader of the acclaimed Devil's Violin Company. For 27 years he has delighted audiences all over the world at storytelling festivals. He is a regular at the major literature festivals at Hay, Bath and Cheltenham. In London he has performed at venues from the Barbican and National Theatre to the British Museum. He has also worked on TV and radio and published books for both children and adults.

Jennifer Tang is an award-winning UK and International stage director and theatre maker. She specialises in making new work across multiple disciplines. Her practice regularly uses music as an integral component. Jennifer's interest is in making work that draws inspiration from specific communities and the stories that arise from them. She has worked at The Young Vic; The RSC; The Royal Opera House; The Drum & TRP and The Gate Theatre among others.
